Dear Sir;

Your letter of Dec., 28th., as well as your previous letter which you dictated on account of sore eyes, are both at hand.

I am very glad to know that you went to Chicago, and to learn the success that attended your trip, but I am especially pleased to learn of your good spirits, and the renewed courage you have taken.

The Columbus Journal of Dec 24th., copied entirely, except the miserable cartoon of you, your notice in the Chicago Journal, a friend of mine noticed it and sent it to me. I am glad you received so warm a reception at Zenia, and sincerely hope that the Muses will not repel your wooing, and enable you to write something appropriate to be read at Athens.

I worried a great deal over the letter I sent you in reply to your request for $50.00, yet since it has come out alright I guess it is best for both of us, because it has taught me not to be too suspicious, and you the lesson that to be frank is always the best way to proceed, with kind regards from all the Family,

Yours truly,

P.S. The clipping from Chicago Journal was in the letter therefore I tore it with the letter, forgetting for the moment that you had asked to have it returned, I have put it together as best I could, I enclose it herewith.
